

WOOD IS IN LEAD, LOWDEN NEXT IN SOUTH CAROLINA

Johnson, Hughes and Harding About Equal After Leaders in Race.

TWO SETS OF DELEGATES

Issues are League of Nations, Americanism and Economy in Federal Affairs.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

According to the returns from the Republican county chairmen of South Carolina in the poll of THE SUN and New York Herald, Major-Gen. Leonard Wood is the first choice of the members of the party there for the Presidential nomination.

Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois is the second choice. Neither the first nor the second choice was as outstanding in South Carolina as in most of the States. Of all the first choices received Wood polled 33.3 per cent., with Senator Hiram W. Johnson, Gov. Lowden, Senator Warren G. Harding and Charles E. Hughes receiving 16 per cent. each.

The strength of Wood's position there lies in the fact that he is strong in "second choice" votes as well as first. In the "second choice" column he received 23.3 per cent., the same number that went to Gov. Lowden. Johnson and Hughes each received 18.6 per cent., while Senator Harding did not figure in the "second choice" column at all.

Democrats Equally Divided.

There seems to be no clear-cut sentiment for any one man for the Democratic nomination among the members of that party in South Carolina, according to reports made by the Republican leaders. There was about equal mention of President Wilson, William G. McAdoo, United States Senator James A. Reed of Missouri and Herbert Hoover.

A new development at the State convention, which was held in Columbia, the result of which will be that two competing delegations, of eleven delegates each, will be sent to Chicago. The contest did not develop over the personality of any Presidential candidate, and each delegation will be sent to the national convention unopposed.

For some years Joseph W. Tolbert of Greenwood has been the dominating personality in the Republican organization of South Carolina. He has held the position both of national committee man and chairman of the State Committee. At the convention there was a determined effort to wrest control from Mr. Tolbert on the part of a faction headed by J. Duncan Adams of Spartanburg, a former United States marshal. Mr. Adams frankly stated that he sought to eliminate Mr. Tolbert from any influence in the organization.

Much Bitterness Develops.

Much bitterness developed in the convention, and it ended in a draw after a deal of wrangling. Mr. Tolbert has kept his own counsel as to his choice for President, if he has any at this time. The impression prevails that the factional differences will prevent the Republican organization from taking full advantage of its opportunities.

According to the reports of the county chairmen the paramount issues in South Carolina will be the League of Nations,

One chairman seemed to think that prohibition would be a strong issue in his part of the State.

Locally, of course, the disfranchisement of the negroes by the Democratic party is a burning issue in South Carolina, as it is in some of the other States.

JOHNSON HOLDS HIS BIG MICHIGAN LEAD

Late Primary Returns Fail to Cut Down Plurality Over Gen. Wood.

Special to THE SUN AND NEW YORK HERALD. DETROIT, April 7.—With 1,827 of Michigan's 2,421 precincts reported from Monday's Presidential preference primary Senator Hiram Johnson's plurality in the State is well over the 45,000 mark.

On the Democratic ticket Herbert Hoover, with only a three digit campaign, has a lead of almost 5,000 over his nearest competitor, Gov. Edward G. Snider, the up-State vote for Hoover wiping out the large Wayne county plurality given to the New Jersey "two" candidate.

Related returns from the State have failed to cut down the big Johnson lead in Detroit and Wayne county. In the 1,827 precincts reported: Johnson, 143,524; Wood, 96,325; Lowden, 52,343; Hoover, 49,461; Democratic—Hoover, 22,752; Edwards, 17,292.

The precincts not yet heard from are in outlying districts, and if the voting has been proportionately as light as in the larger districts the aggregate would not exceed a few thousand, not enough to affect the existing pluralities.

The State's total Republican vote was in excess of that registered in the 1916 general election and represented a larger percentage of the total.

The bitter fight between Senator Johnson and Major-Gen. Leonard Wood has helped Hoover's chances materially in the coming Chicago convention in the opinion of Elbert H. Fowler, temporary chairman of the Michigan Hoover Republican Club. He said:

"Johnson's victory over Wood has definitely eliminated the latter as a contender for the support of delegates whose constituencies are opposed to the spending of large sums of money in elections. On the other hand Johnson cannot hope for strong support on his anti-League of Nations stand. Hoover will gain strength as the weakness of both Wood and Johnson becomes apparent to the delegates."

Among the delegates who are sincere,

JOHNSON LAUNCHES FIGHT FOR JERSEY

Michigan Results Give Him Strong Hope of Carrying Primary April 27.

N. Y. VOTE 'NO SETBACK'

Senator Departs for West Saturday, but Hopes to Return for Speeches.

Encouraged over his success in the Presidential preference primary in Michigan, and not at all discouraged, he declares, "over his failure to pick up any national delegates in the New York primaries, Senator Hiram W. Johnson has set out to capture the New Jersey primary, which will be determined on April 27."

Although the Senator must go West at the end of this week, he is hoping to get back to New Jersey before primary day to put a final touch on his campaign there. In the meantime Angus McSwen, his Eastern manager, has mapped out an intensive campaign on behalf of the California Senator.

The Senator before going to New Brunswick, N. J., to speak last night would make no extended comment on the fact that the delegates running on a Johnson pledge were snowed under in this State Tuesday.

"There is no particular significance to be attached to our lack of success in this State," said Mr. McSwen. "In the first place we had little chance properly to publicize our candidate. We had no funds, while our opponents had the backing of a powerful organization, which had the election machinery at their disposal."

"If there had been a preferential primary and Senator Johnson's name had been on the ballot, things would have been different and there would have been a great popular demonstration of his strength."

Created No Enemies.

"However, we have created no antagonisms. We know that many of the men elected yesterday without pledges of any kind are really for Johnson. As a matter of fact two of these men, who were opposed by Johnson candidates, informed us to-day that they believe our candidate is the best man in the field."

Mr. McSwen said it would be unwise for him to make public the names of these men.

To-night Senator Johnson speaks in Passaic and Patterson, to-morrow night in Jersey City and Hoboken and on Saturday starts for Nebraska. He hopes to be able to make a drive in Indiana before returning to New Jersey.

None of the Wood managers could be seen yesterday. On Tuesday it was said Representative Norman J. Gould had gone to Washington. Yesterday he was seen in the Imperial, but later it was stated that he had just "left for Washington."

Now that the Chicago delegates are actually chosen there will be much quiet work done to land their votes on the first ballot in the national convention. One of the Wood managers a week or so ago said he hoped to have thirty-five of New York's eighty-eight votes. He distributed the remaining as follows: Lowden 20, Butler 18, Harding 15. This was before the Michigan primary. There are a number of hand-picked men among those who have appeared to be friendly to Wood up to this time.

Among the delegates who are sincere, ly for Wood are Henry L. Stimson, John J. Lyons, Robert L. Bacon and F. J. H. Kracke.

It was reported some time ago that Jacob A. Livingston, leader in Kings county, had joined the local Wood committee, but he denied it at the time. President F. H. La Guardia of the Board of Aldermen, delegate from the Fourteenth Congress district, said:

"It is in his speeches between now and the convention Gen. Wood makes it clear that he is abreast of the times. I shall undoubtedly support him. If not I shall vote for United States Senator Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin and stick to him."

"If the Johnson campaign here had been run by the right kind of people locally, instead of by politicians who have been defeated many times before the California would have won handsily in my estimation."

Shows Faith in Party.

Chairman George A. Glyn of the Republican State Committee declared that the victory of the organization should show the confidence that enrolled Republicans had in its management.

"It is a fine thing that the delegates are going to Chicago without instructions," he said. "The party is more interested in winning in November than it could possibly be in the fortunes of any candidate in April. This is saying nothing against any of the candidates, for they are all good men."

It had been expected that Senator James A. Wadsworth, Jr., might receive the opposition of ardent suffrage women in the primaries, but surprisingly enough this was not apparent. In the city he ran neck and neck with former Judge William L. Miller, who headed the list on the ballot; indeed, he was just a trifle ahead of him.

Senator William M. Calder, third on the ballot, was high man in point of votes of all the "Big Four" in this city, having a lead of 3,500 over Miller and Wadsworth. This was more or less of a surprise because friends of Comptroller Eugene M. Travis are considerably moved with the Senator for opposing the Comptroller's gubernatorial aspirations. Indeed, Chairman Livingston severely criticized him the day before the primary.

The only change in the list of delegates to the national convention as printed in THE SUN AND NEW YORK HERALD brought about by the latest figures was in the Seventh Congress district, Brooklyn, where Paul Windels, running as an insurgent, broke into the organization slate of two. He was high man William Boardman, organization candidate, came in second, while Michael J. Dady, who was Boardman's colleague on the slate, was shoved off the board.

He was third. The Johnson delegates came in fifth and sixth, the fourth man being J. H. Morgan, running "wild," as was Windels. The latter was unpledged also, his victory being entirely a personal one. The vote was: Windels, 2,538; Boardman, 2,208; Dady, 2,098; Morgan, 1,859; Wagner (Johnson), 824; Walsh (Johnson), 745.

More complete returns yesterday also showed two changes in the Republican State committee list. In two Brooklyn districts the insurgents won. D. Harry Ralston was returned a winner over Charles M. Hall in the First Assembly district. In the Sixth district former Senator Reuben L. Gledhill defeated John Heneglin, Jr.

The Republican State committee will be reorganized here on April 15. The following day in the Hotel Knickerbocker the new Democratic committee will meet for reorganization.

Palmer Seeks Primary Votes.

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 7.—Attorney-General Palmer to-day filed petitions from eleven counties to place his name upon the Democratic Presidential preference ballot in the May primary.

Uninstructed Delegation Picked.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 7.—Republicans of the Fourth North Carolina Congress district to-day elected an uninstructed delegation to the Republican national convention.

P.P.C. Printing Facts

By the use of double-tone ink on dull-coated paper most charming results can be achieved. In sepia the effect closely approximates photogravure work at a small part of the expense. Black ink printed from specially made half-tones on dull-coated paper gives a result almost identical to that of carbon print photography. This is a difficult process and should only be entrusted to a printer thoroughly experienced in its execution.

ARNOLD FOR SENATE. FIGHTS 'FOOL LAWS'

Former Publisher Is Candidate on 'Ripping' Platform.

Special to THE SUN AND NEW YORK HERALD. FORT LEE, N. Y., April 7.—Lynn J. Arnold, Sr., of Cooperstown, formerly publisher of the Knickerbocker Press in Albany, announced to-night his candidacy to the United States Senate, saying he would go into the primaries, both Republican and Democratic, and might run also on an independent ticket.

He announced as his platform "opposition to the Eighteenth Amendment, the Volstead enforcement act and all the fool laws that have been passed since 1898, and against Prussian ideas in State and National Government."

Mr. Arnold said he stood alone for Anglo-American ideas. He charged the "Prussians" were in control of the State Government. Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., he declared, was the candidate of the Prussian party of this State. There is no Republican or Democratic party in either Albany or Washington, but a Prussian party, he says.
